

t-mac crowned SME of the Year

- at Midlands and East of England National Business Awards - t-mac Technologies scooped the coveted 'Small to Medium Sized Business of the Year award' at last night's (15 July 2008) Midlands and East of England National Business Award ceremony, National Motorcycle Museum, Birmingham.

The company, which has been in business for three and a half years, won due to its significant growth and innovation in the energy sector.

t-mac Technologies has increased its turnover by 11 per cent and doubled its staff to 23 in the past 12 months alone, the business has also secured a significant contract to supply its energy management applications to international bank HSBC.

Run by a brother-sister team, Lisa (30) and Jonathan Wilkinson (27), the company has also secured contracts to supply its energy management system to a host of public sector organisations and major retailers and banks.

t-mac Technologies designs and installs a range of energy management (t-mac) solutions.

Lisa Wilkinson, Director of t-mac Technologies, said: "To be crowned with this accolade is an enormous coup for us as a business and a ringing endorsement of our expertise and t-mac's technological innovation.

"Green issues are really beginning to bite in the boardroom, as a business we aim to instigate a change in mindset of how energy management is viewed by businesses - energy shouldn't cost the earth to use or to monitor and manage."

t-mac can monitor, meter, manage and control energy consumption for almost every industry, enabling businesses to identify where too much energy is being used, help businesses reduce costs, lower its carbon footprint and meet legislation. From any location in the world users can view what is happening on each of their sites or buildings, every minute of every day just by logging on to the internet.

The company was also shortlisted in the Building Control Industry Association 'Technical Innovation of the Year' awards in May.

A National Business Award is the UK's most sought after business accolade – providing finalists and winners with real recognition of their achievements. Winners in 2007 ranged from established household names such as Barclays Business Banking and ASDA, through to growing organisations such as Sign-up.to and Peach Pub Company.
